

Teacher Reflection

Does my classroom trust me?

How do I know?

When faced with major decisions, who do I discuss these with?

Why these people?

Who typically decides how we will learn something?

Why these people?

Teacher Reflection

What is my role in the classroom?

Does my role change?

When my students have a need do they come to me right away or do they try to solve it first?

Why or why not?

How are students given a voice in the classroom?

Does their voice matter to you?

Teacher Reflection

How do I feel about change?

What was the last major thing I changed?

Who decides what needs to change in the classroom?

How are my students connected to the world?

Is it enough?

The biggest positive contribution I have made to my students' lives is?

Teacher Reflection

My typical lesson looks like. . . .

If I could change just one thing, it would be. . . .

When students suggest change, what is my reaction?

What changes have I enacted based on student input?

When parents suggest change what is my reaction?

What changes have I enacted based on parent input?